COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The following amounts of surplus food were distributed during 1961: Butter, 1,661 lbs.; Dried Eggs, 844 cans; Dry Milk, 5,132 lbs.; Lard, 2,926 lbs.; Corn Meal, 3,240 lbs.; Flour, 10,140 lbs.; Dry Beans, 2,590 lbs.; Pork and gravy, 1,363 cans; Rolled oats, 1,514 lbs.; Peanut Butter, 608 lbs.; Chopped Meat, 686 cans; Cheese, 160 lbs. This total 16% tons of food to 167 persons on a yearly average. The total freight charges were $529.46 of which the town was reimbursed $98.36 for providing surplus food to Albany, Gilead and Upton cases.

Trouble on the Railroad Street sewer required making an excavation and it was found that there is already two feet of frost in the ground.

Elsewhere in this issue of the Citizen there is a list of the receipts and expenditures, also showing unexpended balances and overdrafts. On the bright side you will note substantial balances in the Truck Rental, Surfacing, Surface Drains and Interest accounts. On the other hand substantial deficits were incurred in the Paradise Sewer, Town Welfare, Chapman St. Reconstruction, and Miscellaneous accounts.

The Paradise Sewer and Chapman Street accounts were in excess of the amount appropriated due to perhaps conservative estimates on the start. The Welfare account is overdrawn for the first time in more than five years. This was due to unusually large and unavoidable expenditures in three cases which totaled nearly one-half of the expenditures on all nineteen cases. Two of the three cases are now on Aid to Disabled and Aid to Dependent Children and are now no burden to the Welfare Account. The third case was largely for hospitalization of a child that had suffered severe burns.

Sincerely,
Harold L. Bean

URGE CHILDREN TO STOP SLIDING FROM DRIVEWAYS

"I promise that I will never slide from the driveway into the street."

If all parents would exact such a promise from their youngsters, if they would make certain that the promise is kept—the lives of several Maine youngsters could be saved each year.

The State Police pointed out today that four youngsters died in coasting accidents last winter.

"This is one of the toughest problems a motorist faces in the wintertime," continued the police organization. "Even though he (the driver) may be proceeding at a reasonable rate of speed, it is often very difficult for him to avoid a sled that darts suddenly out of a side street or out of a driveway. Banked snow on the side of the street obscures the on-rushing slider until the last moment."

The police added that, as a matter of fact, frequently the sliding victim crashes into the side of a car or slides under it. Of course, a driver is practically helpless in such a situation. Drivers can help a great deal by anticipating trouble and by being especially alert for this type of hazard.

"However," they concluded, "the coasters themselves are the ones who can best prevent these tragedies. Constant checking by parents to make sure that their youngsters are not indulging in this particularly dangerous practice could very well save their lives."

The enforcement group also emphasized that parents would be investing their time and efforts well by finding a safe place for their children to slide.

What is an unsafe speed? The State Police tell us that any speed which is too high for us to stop quickly to avoid a collision, to miss a youngster who darts into the street, or which makes it impossible for us to negotiate a curve without mishap is an unsafe speed.

Boys and girls, October is still good bike riding weather, but remember that it is getting dark sooner now. Holes or ruts in the road, fallen branches, or anything which might cause you to lose control of your bicycle are dangerous at any time—but especially dangerous at night. The State Police ask you to be alert to these dangers—to remember that "Watchful Eyes Get No Surprise."

The Maine Highway Safety Committee urges all of us to be on the lookout for bike riders. These "miniature motorists" will be out in great numbers on weekends and after school during the week. Many of them will be wheeling to and from school on their bikes. The committee reminds us that these youngsters have many exciting things on their minds, and sometimes they forget to be careful. In spite of all their safety training they will make traffic mistakes. Let's make an effort to compensate for this fact by thinking twice—once for ourselves and once for the bike rider.

For all of this I wish to express my deepest thanks.

UNCLE NATHAN SEZ:

Lot's Maine folks take their vacations in the fall or the year, when the frost is on the pumpkin and Mother Nature dresses in her most colorful finery. The State passed along a half dozen hints for vacation drivin'. Near's I kin recollect, they went sumpin' like this:

1. Plan trip's so's you kin git that and back, 'thout hurryin'.

2. If you're goin' ter strange parts, learn local drivin' rules. If you can't find out aforehand, ask a policeman when you git there.

3. Git ter feelin' tired an' sleepy, pull off th' road somewhere an' take a snooze.

4. If you been touchin' corn ageezin's a little ditz, let a teetotaler drive. He'll make a better fetch up it 'n you will.

5. Inspect th' old bus mighty keeful-like afore you git ter goin'.

6. If you plan ter take along ever'thin' but th' kitchen sink, pile an' tie it ship-shape, so's it wunt interfere with seein' or steerin'.

Gut ter thinkin'—them scenery lookers git mighty keeful sometimes. Feller last week gut ter strainin' his neck towards Old Spruce Mountain—never even slowed down. Gut ter admit—that there mountain's all-fired purty, spec'ly jest as th' leaves start ter turn. Hope thet feller injoied it....last thing he ever saw!

SENIOR MYF

We met at 8:30 o'clock to have a box lunch supper. Our leaders served cocoa and cake. At 6:30 we began our meeting with a hymn sing led by Jane Luxton.

Our President put forth the program which the council had planned for January. We decided to have different people in for the next three Sundays to give talks on different religions. The group voted yes to this plan. We chose three people to contact these people. They are Steve Dock, Julie Brown, and Charlene Swain.

We decided to have a bulletin board to keep important dates and facts on. We also decided to set up rules for the dances we put on so the children and chaperones will know what they are. The people chosen to make a list of rules are Trafton Foster, Bob Clemmons, Charlene Swain and Kathy Clemmons.

A committee was chosen to plan the party we will put on for the 4th, 5th, and 6th grades Jan. 19 from 7 o'clock until 8:30. They are Nancy Brown, Charlene Swain, Carol Flint, and Kathy Clemmons.

The meeting was then turned over to Geneva Bean and Nancy Fox who led a discussion about home work.

Our group now is being advised by four couples. They are Mr. and Mrs. Norman Dock, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clemmons, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keniston, and Mr. and Mrs. Alton Luxton. — Respectfully submitted, Secretary, Nancy Brown.

Read Philipians 3:7-15
Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it. (Proverbs 22:6).

When one day I visited a family belonging to my church, the son 13 years of age came bursting into the house. He cried out, "Mother, what do you think the teacher gave us for homework? It reads like this: 'A visit to myself fifteen years from now!' How do I know how it will be then?"

As he suddenly became aware of my presence, he turned to me and said, "Preacher, please help me to make this 'fifteen years from now' good." I looked into his eager eyes and asked, "Egill, you belong to Christ and love Him, don't you?"

"Sure I do, I always will," was his reply.

"Well, then, do you think that Christ will change very much in fifteen years?"

In response, I got a rapid, "Oh, no!" In fifteen years this boy probably will have his own home. If he keeps this course, he will let the family altar and the Bible have an honored place, and his daily life will be guided by the Holy Spirit.

Looking ahead with Christ is a fine program for one year, for fifteen years, for the whole of life.

PRAYER: God and Father, help us this day, this year, and all our years to be in Christ's presence looking forward with Him to what is ahead. Grant us always to count on Him. In His name we pray. Amen.

COUNTRY FLAVOR

TWITCHING OUT

It is done with powerful, growing tractors and trucks today, but half a century ago a 14 year-old was glad to hear his father say on a Saturday morning, "Son, better twitch out those logs today and pile them by the road."

Twitching out was a part of the farm's winter lumbering. Good farmers liked to keep on hand a supply of boards and dimension material. A four-handed farmer also liked to cut the pines and hemlocks, oak and ash in the late fall before snow deepened. Early cutting meant that one did not lose any of the valuable butt log.

Twitching out was pleasant, unhurried work on a winter's day. Gray day or bright, it was peaceful in the woodland. A long chain was fastened around one end after the log was loosened by the cant hook.

With Old Jerry hooking into the collar, the log was twitched through the snow and among the standing trees to the pile by the roadside, where eventually the logs would be loaded onto the two horse hobsled for the trip to the mill.

Hour by hour, the pile of logs grew. But while a boy was twitching out, there was time to study the tracks of foxes and rabbits. Sometimes a partridge went up with a sudden, staccato r-r-r-r. Shep chased rabbits from one brush pile to another while friendly chickadees came around and chanted their alto song. Patient, well-trained horses no longer twitch logs from farm woodlots, but there are men in city offices and modern factories who remember the winter days when they worked with a friendly horse in the farm woodlot.

Comment from the Capital —

UNION PAYOLA

by Vant Nelf

Anyone here want a job? Just get up from $2 to $250 union initiation fee depending on your trade and you're all set.

Wait now! That's just to get the job. You'll have to pony up union dues every month to keep it. The union can take these dues right out of your pay check like the withholding tax and Social Security deductions. Just sign here, union member!

What's that? You want the job but you don't want to join the union? Sorry, pay up, or no job!

Did you know that we are about the only country outside the Iron Curtain where the government condones compulsory union membership and legalizes extortion of fees and dues to get and hold a job? Three Amendments to the Constitution, the 9th, 10th, and 14th, guarantee us the right to work at any trade we wish without fear or favor. But these Constitutional guarantees don't prevent this sort of union economic power of life and death over workers across the country.

While the Taft-Hartley Act of 1947 gives workers the right not to join a union as a condition of employment, it also allows labor contracts which require an employer to discharge workers within 30 days if they have not become union members. Depending on which state you live in, and the kind of labor contract existing, you may or may not be required to join a union to get and hold a job.

Texas, Florida, Kansas, Indiana and 15 other states have taken advantage of a federal law giving the states the power to prohibit compulsory union membership. To get around this, the unions have come up with a gimmick called the "agency shop". This is an agreement between an employer and a union where nonunion employees are required to pay the union's fees and dues in order to hang on to their jobs, even though they are not union members.

Again depending on where you live, the "agency shop" may be legal or not. Right now it seems to be legal in Indiana but not in Kansas. But whether your state operates under Taft-Hartley or a state labor law, or both, whether you are a union member or not, chances are that if you want to work, you may have to pay the union.

The union leaders want the vestments to manage the pension and welfare funds.

Did you ever hear of a union stopping the collection of dues because it had enough money in the treasury? Take that AFL-CIO nest egg of $40 billion. Union leaders have decided to put some of it into government insured loans for housing and mortgages. And of course a sizeable portion will go toward fighting any legislation — state or federal — that might halt the payola that workers pay in fees and dues... or any other political program unions favor.

Union reserves have been growing at the rate of almost $5,000,000,000 a year for the last 15 years. Any legislation that would interrupt this annual tribute that employees pay for the privilege of working seems remote.

Instead the unions go right on collecting from their members. From the way things are going, they will soon be collecting from members who work no hours at all during the work week. The work week has been dropping about 8 hours every 10 years. One hundred years ago it was 70 hours. Today it's 40. Many workers have less than 40 hours a week schedule.

Now Mike Quill of the Transport Workers Union in New York wants a four day work week of 32 hours at 40 hours pay plus a 15% pay raise. If these demands are met, the taxpayers will have to subsidize the bus companies if an increase in bus fare is to be avoided. If Quill doesn't get what he wants, 2,000,000 riders will have to find other means of getting to work. You can rest assured, however, that Quill will keep right on collecting from the 8,000 drivers he is sending out on strike!

Taft-Hartley Act repealed. They also claim that a majority of state legislatures are anti-labor. But why they are not entirely satisfied with the way things are is a puzzlement. The legal payola they have been exacting from working people has certainly enriched the union treasuries. To such an extent that they don't know what to do with the money.

The net worth of the United Automobile Workers last year was $41,000,000. Reserves of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union amount to $350,000,000. AFL-CIO has combined assets of over $40,000,000,000, and a full time director of in-

6 tips that can help you get more warmth from your heating oil dollars

Your Shell Heating Oil supplier recommends these 6 ways to reduce heating costs and have a more comfortable home:

1. Keep your oil burner clean. Today's Shell Heating Oil contains special additive FOA-5X. It helps keep critical burner parts free from clogging—assures better firing.

2. Guard against tank rust. Shell Sonitor® anti-rust treatment helps protect your storage tank for one full year, at no extra cost.

3. Check your thermostat location. If your thermostat is in a stairwell, on an outside wall or near an outside entrance—it may cause your burner to operate more often than necessary.

4. Shut off radiators or registers in rooms that aren't in regular use.

5. When fireplaces are not in use, make sure dampers are securely shut.

6. Keep attic ventilators closed during the heating season.

If Only He Hadn't Cut Out of Line

Many accidents caused by changing lanes could be avoided, according to the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, if only drivers refused to cut suddenly out of line and instead first made sure that the way was clear in front of and behind them. Safety authorities say that investigations of thousands of accidents in every state in the Union show conclusively that nearly all could have been avoided if only one or another of the involved drivers had driven with greater care. In co-operation with Liberty Mutual Insurance Company, Jaycees are conducting an educational campaign against "If-Only" drivers who annually contribute to accidents on United States highways causing 1,400,000 injuries, 38,200 deaths and costing $6,500,000,000.

HEALTH AND SAFETY TIPS FROM THE A. M. A.

Speech

There's a good chance that you haven't learned to speak.

That is, you haven't learned to speak out clearly, so that those around you can hear and understand what you say. Millions of people are more or less handicapped in their everyday affairs because of slurred speech, mumbling, swallowing word endings and other violations of vocal expression that leave an impression of carelessness and lack of self-confidence.

Speech is our direct means of communication. Clear enunciation and a pleasant voice are among the greatest assets in modern society. This doesn't mean that everyone need be an orator, or even a public speaker. It does mean that we must make ourselves understood in our everyday dealings with the people around us.

Some people are fortunate enough to be born with voices that yield true, pure tones. From this group we obtain most of our vocal talent—singers, orators and radio and television announcers. Most of us have to be content with everyday quality of voice, but we at least can use it to best advantage.

Some can gain from voice lessons. Not to become a singer, but just to develop a better voice quality. Almost everyone can gain from coaching in public speaking and dramatics.

Most important of all is the effort to express ourselves as clearly and as pleasantly as possible. It doesn't require a teacher to tell us that we must speak loud enough and distinctly enough to be understood.

The American Medical Association suggests that you try a simple experiment. Ask two or three close friends or relatives—those who will give you an honest answer—whether they can understand your speech all of the time. The answers may surprise you. Or, you can ask yourself the question: How often does someone ask me to repeat a word, phrase, or sentence?

A few minutes a day for a week or two of concentrating on speaking distinctly will help to develop clear speech habits that will be invaluable in human relationships.

"Do you know in order to enjoy the glories of the present Soviet system, we would have to abandon three-fifths of our steel capacity, two-thirds of our petroleum capacity, 95 percent of our electric-motor output, destroy two of every three of our hydroelectric plants, and get along on a tenth of our present volume of natural gas? We would have to cut our living standard by three-fourths."
